General Comment

Allowing AI companies to completely bypass copyright laws steals from everyone who's ever worked hard for their money. How are honest Americans who wish to better everyone's lives expected to continue that if these companies can take their hard work and reap in all of the rewards without a single cent going to the people who made them? This is bad for the American economy at large- people won't be able to earn money on their products, future generations will have no say on what happens to their work- everyone loses. For the love of God, do not turn your back on the people for the sake of making one company rich, especially since it's in a bubble waiting to pop any year now! We can't sustain an entire country on fads and novelties!
