General Comment

I am a business owner and software developer. I have created software that is used by millions of people around the world. Allowing AI companies to steal my work is the death of my American dream. Organizations like OpenAI are fleecing the American people by trying to convince us that they need to steal our work in order to fatten their bank accounts. Government endorsed theft of this scale would be a massive harm to our future economy.

If they want to use the efforts of creators and businesses, they can compensate those creators and businesses just like anyone else who came before the AI hype started.
