General Comment

It is my belief that it is a wildly disrespectful reach to train ai on the works of artists without their explicit permission. Currently certain social media policies have left open too much room in their agreements to allow for training data on images publically posted. Further, even outside of this, ai companies scraped the web for this content even when it was not posted under such means, from the privately owned websites across the internet. Please ban ai images from being able to be sold or trained on this data, especially when it is so clearly in violation of copyright and obtained under deceptive means.
