General Comment

Copyright exists for a reason. If artists can't make a living from their art, that art will disappear.

If you allow plagiarism machines to steal wholesale from the American people, no one will ever play music for you again except the guy playing for free in the park. There will be no new books that aren't published on Wattpad. Movies and TV shows will no longer be profitable, so say goodbye to most popular entertainment. It'll be nothing but ever-worsening slop for the rest of your life. I hope you like the worst Marvel movies that have all been run through a blender, because that's what this change will produce.

If you've ever enjoyed a book, song, movie, show, or video game produced by a living artist, it is in your best interest to stop AI profiteering now.
