General Comment

AI is a business dead-end that is already failing, only a fool who wants bankruptcy invests in this kind of snake-oil &^%it. You need creative humans, there's literally no way around that no matter how much you wish otherwise — all you'll do by proceeding with this clownery is to drive creatives elsewhere and make the US dependent upon importing the creative content it can no longer produce itself. You're going to kneecap a multi-billion-dollar industry because some nerds are mad that they can't create their way out of a paper bag and resent the people who can. This lunacy is straight-up killing the goose that lays the golden eggs, and you're all too f&^% stupid to realize it. Great f&^% job, super geniuses.
