General Comment

I am an artist and general creative newly working in the industry. Art is, quite literally, in everything. From the cars we drive, to the chairs we sit upon, to the advertisements we see day to day. It is EVERYWHERE and it is most powerful when created by another human being. These creations deserve to be protected because artist keep the world moving. Without copyright protection, it could potentially throw the world of advertising and media into chaos. These are huge economic boons as of now, and losing them to AI copyright would be disastrous.
