General Comment

Copyright is the foundation of the American economic miracle, from the creative arts to the tech sector. It promises that people who innovate may leverage that work to achieve the American dream.

Gen AI is seeking legalized theft of that work, and a business or even an industry that cannot survive without theft does not deserve to survive at all.

The government must hold them accountable at all phases, or risk destroying the promise of private property rights, a founding pillar of civil rights and economic prosperity.
