General Comment

As a professional visual artist and writer, I am FLOORED at the brazen IP theft that AI developers have committed. Around the world and across all disciplines, their crimes have been roundly condemned. They are stealing IP from individual artists and from companies as enormous as Disney, Universal, and Warner Bros.

And for what? A product that has yet to prove itself as much more than a parlor trick and a meme generator. It's sucked up billions and still can't turn a profit. It's a hack looking to solve problems that don't even exist - but it sure wants to create a whole host of new ones.

Intellectual Property MUST be protected for US businesses to thrive. Tech companies MUST NOT be given free reign over the intellectual property of others. Tell them to stay in their lane and work within the protections of the law!
