General Comment

You are asking for the permission to make copyright infringement legal. You are asking for the right to steal from hardworking artists and writers, and to take money from their hands and food from their mouths. You are wanting to allow a soulless, lifeless mathematic equation to replace human beings who live to create.

A nation that allows these actions is a nation that will no longer dream, no longer create, and no longer hope. Soon after that, it will become a nation that no longer exists.

As a writer, I implore you to stop heading down this road of self-eradication. Art is purely and utterly and ultimately human. It cannot be reproduced by, or replaced by AI.
