General Comment

AI initiatives like this do nothing to improve the lives of US citizens. Instead they promote blatant theft of the work and resources of real people. This sort of thing has a demonstrably negative impact on the lives of the American people and we should not be pursuing it. It is reprehensible to steal from the hard work of people in this country to develop systems that will only make those same people "obsolete" while only churning out subpar content. Anyone who has worked in a creative industry is already familiar with the lackluster results that you get from AI and the damage it does to real people. Removing some of the very few methods that we have to try to protect our lives and jobs from this garbage is a terrible idea.
