General Comment

I am writing as the author and editor of seven books, almost all of which were used without my permission to train LLMs created by OpenAI. It would be a betrayal of American values, and of federal law, to give OpenAI immunity from future lawsuits. It would destroy the value of creative endeavors and lead to a torrent of misinformation that could cause untold damage — indeed, it already has, thanks to the uptick in energy and water use, as well as the exorbitant costs, required for these LLMs to operate.

I urge you all to reconsider this. Thank you very much for your time and attention.

Very truly yours,

Sarah Weinman
