General Comment

Hello,

AI companies should not be given carte blanche to build and profit on stolen work. It is a cornerstone of the American idea that the people who create their work are the owners of their work. These companies are parasites on the academic, creative, and any other community they seek to steal from for no societal gain. These companies must be forced to gain consent and compensate the creator of the work they wish to use. Copyright and other legal protections become closer to being meaningless otherwise.

Thank you
