General Comment

Tech giants such as OpenAI or Google should not have special permission to steal copyrighted works from hardworking artists, writers and creators for the purpose of training their AI models.

Millions of Americans' jobs will be replaced by (or have already been replaced by) AI tools. Allowing big tech companies such as OpenAI or Google to advance their AI agenda will further destroy the livelihoods of hard working Americans for profit.

Americans will suffer in the so called "competition" for "AI supremacy." A matter of which does not keep Americans safe. The American government should focus its efforts onto improving its economy & supporting its citizens to allow them to create and witness beautiful works of human achievement, art, passion and creativity.
