General Comment

Speaking as a professional fiction writer, I regard generative AI as theft—of my work specifically. My own writing has been used without my consent to create value for a private corporation, for which I received no apology or compensation. But even if compensation had been offered, I would not have given consent, because I believe wholehearted that generative AI is a cancerous scam on society as a whole. It's a grift. It's anti-social and anti-human. People broadly do not like or want it. It should not be part of our future.
