General Comment

Generative AI is theft and “produces” work of little to no value, is often incorrect, and wastes massive amounts of natural resources to run its servers.

It is embarrassing that the US seeks to advance its “AI dominance,” which amounts to bragging about its own laziness and inability to think critically.

We should not take the copyrighted work of actual humans and feed it to a machine/program for worse outputs when protecting the intellectual property and livelihood of those humans is the actual role of government. There is so little to be gained by going all-in on AI, and so much to lose.
