General Comment

OpenAi and AI as a whole. Should not EVER be allowed to freely trample any form of copywrite.

From jobs being taken and nothing to replace them, human creativity literally being stolen and regurgitated by a machine -for profit- with no compensation to artists or companies at all, not even a form of CREDIT where they sourced their materials from.

We are talking about taking the whole of the world's imagination, stories, hobbies, and a source of joy being profiteered by one company and if you're okay with that, you better be okay with myself or any other human being on the planet, walking into your home and taking your car, then bringing it back with the wrong tires and spray painted because.

"I didn't STEAL IT i borrowed, took it apart, learned from it, took the good parts to sell for my own, and then ""transformed it"".

Think on that.
