General Comment

Private interests are trying to convince the government that AI (defined as generative AI programs such as ChatGPT) is some sort of national security concern or way of boosting our country's power. It is not. Recent AI developments are simply a scheme by a few rich men to take control of all copyrighted works in the country and to drain money from the government via sham contracts and grants. AI is a grift that has already done so much damage to our leaders and citizens. It has no place in the United States. The con men who are lobbying for the government to embrace them and hand them billions should be refused entirely, as they are exploiting this country. Do not give them free reign to exploit it further.
