General Comment

As an artist and a writer, I do not believe AI holds a place in the future of the United States.

No one can deny that AI steals from the livelihoods of Americans and profits off of theft

AI is overhyped and is fleecing the eyes of the American public. Consumers have rejected AI at every turn and yet companies have forced the technology into every product imaginable.

Consumers do not want this. It is bloatware at best, but from my experience, it is so much worse.

The only people that want AI are the people who intend to use it to exploit others.
