General Comment

This comment will likely fall on deaf ears as this admin clearly lacks all decency, displaying the willingness to trample on the American people's rights and freedoms. Now it is proposing letting massively inflated corporations that produce nothing worthwhile to the American people STEAL their copyrighted material as well. This, if approved, is a new low and the death nail of American copyright protection for those without the immense wealth to catch the ear of and unfairly sway the opinions of higher offices, all this only to empower a company's worthless product that will only succeed in putting more Americans out of work.
