General Comment

We should not allow unaccountable companies steal from creators. Companies that want to train their AI programs should compensate those whose data they use. They should allow creators to opt out of such use.

Stop allowing companies to force us to give them all of our work, when we spent years honing our crafts, and a lot of money to get trained and educated to produce. Technology like this is soulless and forcing hard-working Americans out of jobs.

We own the product of our labors. Letting AI companies run roughshod over our rights and copyrights, with no legal recourse or compensation, is just theft.
