General Comment

My name is Brandon King. Currently, I hold several occupations, but among them I am a musician and part of a large community of independent artists, filmmakers, painters and others.

I use this space to make clear that I do not support Open AI in the future of US policy, decisions and certainly not in the livelihoods of my musician, filmmaker and other artist friends and colleagues.

I believe the technology has room for rampant exploitation of communities who I hold dear and who are already using every scrap of time, energy and yes, money, to try to make the world a bit more interesting with their work.

I will not, while I have some semblance of a voice, allow powers of higher influence than I ever will have to let AI developers and softwares loose on artistic communities with no oversight, consequences or compensation.

Simply voicing this feels terrifying to attempt, but I hope beyond anything else that you will take the words of one arts advocate and one artist to heart, and know that I am not alone in my concerns.

Thank you for your time.
