General Comment

This ironically might be the most Communist thing to occur in the name of business, f&^% over hard working Americans so one specific businessman can get rich off the hard work of hundreds if not millions of Americans while they get nothing in return (at least so-called wasteful jobs cut by the unelected Musk paid the people before they were wrongfully terminated). Let alone the environmental damage ramping up AI production will cause, but of course I don't think anyone in the government cares about that. Hell, I wouldn't be surprised if all of these comments go into the virtual equivalent of a paper shredder, with about how much the government cares to represent the interests of its constituents (unless they're big business/Israel, which the American government loves more than its people).
