General Comment

AI is often a speculative investment, sucking up money, energy, human ingenuity, and more resources for the speculation that it may be able to solve certain problems one day. AI is already running rampant in our markets. The AI bubble can burst any moment and take 401ks and mutual funds with it. It has already been revealed that many hailed "AI successes" are merely powered by low-paid, overseas employees working behind the scene to act as the AI or to label the data.

Further, AI needs guardrails to not be able to abuse the labor of millions of artists, authors, and creators of all kinds. We need to be able to control our own copyrighted materials.
