General Comment

I'm shocked and appalled that this action plan is not to block and cease any operations from OpenAI from scraping the works of artists and writers that pour their hearts and souls into them. This is theft, pure and simple, and the US Government should be working to stop this nonsense now rather than actively encourage it. AI can be useful in medical and scientific settings but has no place in creative ones. Setting back the humanities and actively harming creative people to make some tech billionaires feel better about their word and art stealing machines is despicable.
