General Comment

AI can only produce a soulless regurgitation of stolen work from real artists, writers, and human creativity. It's going to drive people away from the places that utilize it. It doesn't make things better. People hate it and already don't trust it. The damage has been done but there's no reason to make it any worse by giving it unchecked power. Eventually it will have nothing new to consume and the internet will be a wasteland of AI cannibalizing itself.
