General Comment

I am deeply concerned about the future widespread unchecked usage of generative AI going forward. I am an audio engineer and musician and I have already seen work in my field decrease at a staggering rate due to its usage. The end results are of extremely poor quality and will threaten the livelihoods of any American working artists. I recognize the value that Large Language Models hold in research fields, but I think allowing them to run rampant in the creative and business sector will cause untold damage to countless Americans and will severely harm American culture as well. I urge those in power to strongly consider restricting the usage of these generative platforms outside of research uses. I believe they will be a disaster both culturally and financially, both for artists and companies.
