General Comment

AI as it exists today only exists due to the hard work of human artists and authors. They are now claiming they need access to even more works that are owned by the creators that put in years of hard work and persistence in order to be successful. It robs the people that did the work in order to generate inaccurate shadows of the works they claim to need. It is absolutely not okay to open the doors further for this exploitative technology to continue the theft of people's life works.
