General Comment

AI companies are scammers and the money that's been shoveled into these companies is an attempt to create a non-human worker who won't need rights and can be exploited without limit. These AI companies can only exist by stealing other people's words, thoughts, expressions, and creative output. They have nothing to offer and should be beholden to the same copyright law that prevents theft of all types of work. To give a legal cover to these AI companies that are stealing other people's work is abomination.
