General Comment

Generative AI is founded on theft and infringes upon copyrights of individuals, corporations and everyone in-between. There is no creativity involved with generative AI and no value in its existence, being a waste of time, resources, and energy and adverse to the foundations of artistry going back more than 2000 years. Furthermore, Generative AI is simply a ploy for companies to be able to reduce workforces, triggering a nationwide, potentially global, unemployment spike and further undermining any attempts at uplifting the middle and lower classes.

There is no two ways about it: Generative AI should not exist. The above reasons are only the consequences we are aware of at this time. There are so many potential pitfalls and dangers associated with this gift of a technology that we do not know about. OpenAI, generative AI, AI infrastructure should not stand.
