General Comment

Proper protection for the intellectual properties of all is a must when developing any further AI. Input of anyone's or entities' works must be done through explicit opt-in consent to ensure fairness to creative sector entities. As is, corporate entities seek to use artists' and authors' works with as little consent as they can get away with. They are, in essence, glorified plagiarism machines, overhyped and stealing from the American public. It is a bubble that will pop. It is not worth investing in.
