General Comment

AI is a massive scam perpetrated by con artists in Silicon Valley upon the world. They want us to believe they have a miracle cure-all in the form of an intelligent machine. What they actually have is an advanced predictive text like the technology that makes suggestions every time you type on your phone. There is no intelligence there, only very advanced association predictions. This is why AI constantly “hallucinates” fictional content—because their entire purpose is to produce text that seems plausible, not to produce truth. No matter how advance this behavior becomes, they remain a dumb machine, not a panacea for all problems. OpenAI wants permission to steal from millions of artists, writers, scientists, and private citizens to make their fraud more convincing—but it will change nothing. You cannot permit this massive wide-scale plagiarism as it will only further their scam, doing irreparable harm for every system and job we replace with these dumb machines that pretend to be smart.
