General Comment

AI is not a replacement for humanity. it will always attempt to replicate, it will imitate, but it will never be true. it will never be real. it will never be new. it will never have soul. it will never move anyone. it will never make someone feel. it will never make someone think. it will never expand anyone's mind. it will never come from a genuine place. AI is devoid of passion. AI is devoid of art. it has nothing to offer. it is nothing. it cannot be trusted and should not be used for any purpose. if we let it grow and grow, we will be devoid of seeing anything real.
