General Comment

Investing in the current wave of generative artificial intelligence will be disastrous for America's future. It remains unclear what actual value, if any, this kind of AI has to the average everyday American besides being a time-wasting novelty toy. Allowing this useless technology to do what it pleases unimpeded will tear up and destroy the livelihoods of working-class citizens in multiple industries and give them nothing in return. The action plan we need for AI is how to stop the big tech money behind it from doing irreparable damage to the American economy. A strong, dominant nation doesn't have a use for this.
