General Comment

I strongly believe that AI has no future in the United States of America. It is a pet project of tech companies to flaunt their technology at the expense of American artists and creativity. Unemployment for artists will rise. The quality of AI produced media will reduce. The profit generated from those AI projects will be negligible once the initial hype of AI artwork goes away. The only AI Action Plan that should be developed is one which addresses the rights of original content creators and trademark holders as well as the risk and impact to American jobs and employment.
