General Comment

If AI is allowed to run rampant without limitation, credentials for any sort of media and real footage will never be able to be fully trusted. Without regulation, AI will be used by and large for misinfo, defamation, and harassment. For every positive use of OpenAI's developments, you can find a negative or harmful one.

Generative AI in its current existence hasn't been around long enough to justify attempts to become a "world leader" in its development. On some level there's an artificial hype behind it that hasn't shown enough benefits to be worth focusing on in the government when there's much more urgent things that could be prioritized and funded.
