General Comment

There is no future for America in a technology like AI. It does nothing but deskills the American worker, or at worst put them out of work. If Americans can't work to support themselves, their families, and their communities, there is no hope for America to be great.

The future of America must be in the hands of the American people, not a computer. To leave that future up to a computer's (often fully incorrect) decision is to full deny the American dream and what this country stands for.

AI has no place here.
