General Comment

You're essentially supporting the notion of taking away jobs, creative minds and future prospects. You complain about people, but do not complain of an AI taking it over and essentially screwing you and/or future generations of your own and others around you.

Are you alright in the head or has the need to jump on the train or wealth at unnatural levels disconnected you from reality so that your skeletal remains be covered in gold when you're gone, leaving all that damage your blood or others have to clean up????
