General Comment

Open AI unjustly profits off of the skill and labor of others without any sort of repayment for those individuals. this goes against everything that our forefathers would have wanted, not to mention trampling all over worker's rights.

Copyright infringement is theft. Period. And Open AI seeks to train its models off of the work of creators who self promote via online platforms as a way of supporting themselves, thus stealing the jobs of others and removing their ability to live free, independent lives.

Creative work is work, and deserves to be compensated adequately, and Open AI does not do this. This will only harm the american people by instilling a sense of complacency and discouraging personal development of creative skills which are ultimately beneficial to CREATING the country's future.

Do not let this bill pass.
