General Comment

AI is a goddamn slop filled mess of regurgitated works that have no creativity whatsoever. It wastes TON of energy to regurgitate jumbled up things people have already said.

AI companies are companies, and should be held to the same restrictions as normal companies. Letting them do whatever they want is HUGELY anti-profit, and will make worse and worse content until nothing remains but lost profits and shambled industries.

AI is just an excuse to lay off a massive part of our workforce for profit, which will inevitably dry up due to lack of human touch or passion that makes products and entertainment, as well as art, food, and other things worth purchasing. You'd lose money in the long run by hiring AI, and would go bankrupt if you relied on it.
