General Comment

AI is simply the newest tool being pushed by big tech companies to take decisions out of human hands. Imagine working weeks or even months on something and having it taken and given back to you broken and tampered with, this is what AI does to hard working human beings. If you care about owning what you make, what you put your blood, sweat, and tears into, AI cannot be allowed to continue as it has. It is nothing but a computer program taking and taking and giving nothing in return but responses that 'look' right, but after closer look are full of garbage and holes.

AI cannot be allowed to train on copywritten works, it is just taking things from hard working people, be it every day Americans or big companies like Disney, or people in other countries. All AI does is take what you love and bastardize it into something unrecognizable. There is no reason, absolutely no good, valid reason, to let AI run rampant as it is and will continue to do.
