General Comment

As a creator, having sole control of my copyright is the only way to ensure that only I can make money from my creations. I do not consent to waive my rights, and I do not consent to the US taking those rights from me for my work. If OpenAI (or any other AI company) cannot make money without taking other people's intellectual property, it should find another business model. Making theft legal for them is the opposite of the American Dream.
