General Comment

It is absolutely crucial that this technology be annihilated and the ashes scattered to the winds. It will strangle American industry - not just entertainment and culture industries, but every corner of the economy will be ultimately be hurt if copyright theft is given any kind of legal patina. Everything from the digital sector to heavy industry depends on the strength of American copyright law, and if it is broken we will feel the negative consequences for generations. I beg you, for the future of this country, do not make it any easier for them to stripmine our most valuable intellectual property.
