General Comment

Oh, f&^% off. AI dominance my a&^, these f&^% techbros have invented new and interesting forms of plagiarism and now they're trying to make it legal.

There is no conceivable usage for this tech that isn't horribly unethical or just plain something that half a dozen reasonably well-paid artists/coders could do better. But knowing the corporations investing in this, they would rather sink millions into a computer than pay a human being a livable wage.
