General Comment

Businesses that cannot exist without the theft of other people's labor and property should not exist.

Generative AI is built on theft on a massive scale. The livelihood of thousands is gleefully exploited for profit without permission or compensation for their victims. Sam Altman himself admitted they cannot operate without stealing human labor and creativity.

The protection of our property rights, including our intellectual property rights, is one of the foundational reasons government exists. I urge the government to protect the people's property rights and not allow these companies to steal from them for their own corporate and personal gain. Theft is theft.
