General Comment

I'm a human being and I draw and write, and perform, and release songs and stories, and run a magazine, and make movies - and I didn't have to steal from anyone to do it. This is &^%. Why give a computer more rights than a person has? It's a machine. It's nothing. And it's being sold to you by grifters. It will never do what they say it can. (I have also worked in machine learning and I'm telling you they are lying.) Computers don't vote, computers can't be put in jail, and this particular computer program will never earn money or create anything of worth; it's a boondoggle. Rip the carpet out.
