General Comment

AI companies need to respect the copyright of material they use. It's theft for them to take artists work without licensing agreements. Many popular artists have their pieces copied so many times that the AI tries to remake their signatures. There are plenty of ways for AI companies to get legal data, let them actual pay artists for what they use.

The entire AI industry is bubble with scam artists desperately looking for government handouts to bail out their reckless investments. Why are we giving handouts to these companies? Let the free market decide their fate.
