General Comment

Generative AI directly steals from the livelihood and wellbeing of American citizens and is being used to generate a profit off of theft. If a business in any other industry took the hard work of someone without their permission and directly used it to generate a profit, we'd call that stealing. Why is this any different? Unregulated generative AI absolutely should not have a place in the future of the United States, and we have a responsibility as one of the most powerful nations on the planet to do something about it. This country is built on the back of hard-working, creative individuals - something companies like OpenAI are seeking exclusively to exploit in order to make money.
