General Comment

AI is a market similar to that of cryptocurrency and NFTs, with false promises to fool the public and will cause huge legal problems by enabling them to begin with.

The utilization of it for governmental purposes seems like many present and future problems that major third party companies might not be favorable toward, especially with piracy as it allows these permissions that will cause more situations then there really needs to be.

AI really has no future in the US, is unpopular by the vast majority of the public and is reaching its end.
