General Comment

Artificial intelligence is not something that we should be just wholeheartedly trusting, especially without a plan for how to help the people whose incomes are destroyed by the adoption of AI programs. I will always prefer a human do the heavy lifting in any job. This comment period seems much too brief and I would request an extension of the comment period. The use of educational, artistic, and otherwise copyrighted works to train AI that is being developed by for-profit companies, the end goal of which is to replace the income-producing jobs of Americans, is a disgrace and an insult to hard working Americans. This policy should not go into effect and every effort to prevent an AI takeover of government roles and responsibilities should be made.
