General Comment

AI does not hold a place in the future of The United States. Generative AI is trained on the stolen creations of artists. Tech companies underpay workers in other countries as little as $1.50-$2/hr to spend 8 hours a day marking stolen material for use in AI models. Companies take the output and profit without permission or payment to the original creators. Reducing regulation only makes it easier for mega corporations to profit while destroying the livelihood of others.

Kenyan workers with AI jobs thought they had tickets to the future until the grim reality set in
